Connect and Reflect

1 Participation & Empowerment

Principle
Young people are empowered to make their own choices, have their voices heard, and actively shape their futures.

Summary for Youth Workers
You do this by helping young people make their own choices, speak up, and take part in decisions. You support them to feel heard, respected, and confident. You listen to their ideas and help create chances for them to join in with community activities. Your role is to listen carefully, believe in young people, and give them space to grow in their own way

Related Code of Ethics themes

- Empower young people to explore + grow
- Listen to their voices and perspectives
- Offer non-judgmental, unbiased guidance
- Put young people first — always

Reflective Prompts

- > How do you make sure young people feel truly heard in your sessions?
- > Have you ever seen a young person lead something their way? What happened?
- > What's one way you could share more power or decision-making in your work?

On the Ground Reminder
Enable young people to share ideas, make decisions, and be part of the plan, this builds confidence and shows their voice matters.

THANK YOU
